BODIES OF SEVERAL VICTIMS FOUND IN THE STREETS OF DUBLIN TODAY; INTENSE CONFUSION

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

DUBLIN, Ireland, Nov. 22.—Bodies of several additional victims of the fighting between Sinn Feiners and British forces were found in the streets of Dublin today. The confusion throughout the city was so great that it was impossible to determine how or when they had been killed.

The biggest round-up of Sinn Feiners in the history of the rebellion was in full swing. Scores of leaders here and at Queenstown were arrested. Detachments of troops with fixed bayonets were searching buildings in Dublin, Queenstown and other cities. Railroad service was suspended and the railroad yards were unnaturally quiet.

Following "Red Sunday," Dublin was under practical martial law today. The death list in the murder raids on British officers and the counter-attacks of police totaled thirty-one. Of these fourteen were officers and police and the others were civilians. More than fifty persons were wounded.

WILL RE-OPEN MOONEY CASE IMMEDIATELY

DETECTIVE DRAPER HAND DECLARES THE EVIDENCE AGAINST MOONEY WAS "FRAMED"

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 22.—District Attorney Brady announced today he would reopen the Thomas Mooney case before the county grand jury immediately. The announcement was the result of the charge of Detective Draper Hand, who was active in gathering evidence on which Mooney was convicted of murder as the result of the San Francisco Preparedness Day bomb explosion in 1916, that the evidence against Mooney was "framed."

Brady declared that after the grand jury investigates the case the result of the investigation would be forwarded to Governor Stephens.

"Governor Stephens is the only man in the world who can aid Mooney," Brady said. "I am sure that he will require conclusive evidence before he lifts a hand. But, if Detective Hand's statement is verified, I believe he will know the truth about the Mooney case."

AT A DINNER DANCE

FAMOUS SPANISH DISHES, DECORATIONS IN KEEPING, AND A JOLLY TIME

One of the most elaborate and thoroughly enjoyable affairs of the season was the Spanish dinner-dance with which Mr. and Mrs. James Mullen, of 299 East Harvard avenue, entertained on Saturday evening.

The dinner was truly Spanish in every detail, from the clever place cards which turned the guests' names into the Spanish language, causing much merriment in finding places, to the Spanish candies at the end of the meal. Favors were little tamales within whose enveloping husks surprises hid. Decorations were in Spanish colors.

Merry games, music and dancing were the pastimes of the evening hours.

To add to the gaiety of the evening, two of the talented guests, Messrs. Reed Heustis and Ramon Casey were prevailed upon to write the words and the music for a song memorializing the jolly affair. The Muse favored Mr. Heustis with gracious celebrity, but when he turned over the lyrics to Mr. Casey, the fickle jade refused her aid, so the composer sought the quiet of the street without, in order to reason with her, forgetting for the nonce that in a game a few minutes before his brow had been adorned with a pair of horns done in a striking shade of red paint.

He had walked in the still night but a few moments when an inspiration came. Rushing to the fireplace under the arc light, he laid his paper upon it and began to write feverishly, fearful lest the melody elude him.

Enters upon the scene a vigilant Glendale cop. "What manner of man is this," thinks he, "who wanders forth in evening dress, with horns painted on his brow, with whistling tunes upon his lips, that doth with rapid pencil scrawl most curious characters upon the fire, plug? ## COYLE-ALLAN

LOS ANGELES RAILWAY MAN WINS GLENDALE GIRL FOR BRIDE

James Coyle, of Los Angeles, and Miss Effie Allan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. V. Allan, of 1227 Boynton street, were united in marriage Saturday evening, Rev. Geo. MacNeill, of Los Angeles, officiating. The wedding took place in the new mission style bungalow which is to be the home of the young couple, at 1225 Boynton street. Tasty decorations of yellow chrysanthemums and greenery enhanced the beauty of the new home. The bride wore a lovely gown of crepe meteor and georgette trimmed with wide silk lace. The only attendants were three little flower girls, Virginia Parker, Dorothy Shiner and Margaret Marsh. Following the ceremony the wedding party and the guests, who numbered twenty-five relatives and friends of the bride and groom, adjourned to the home of the bride's parents, where a reception and wedding supper were held. Red carnations and holly were used to decorate the home. The bride was the recipient of many beautiful gifts. Mr. and Mrs. Coyle left for an extended honeymoon trip in the north. Mr. Coyle is employed by the Salt Lake Railway company in Los Angeles.

15 Days in Jail

George Blanchard of 803 East Windsor Road was overhauled yesterday as he was travelling fifty-five miles an hour on his motorcycle along San Fernando Road. He appeared before Judge Lowe this morning and was given a sentence of fifteen days in the county jail. He is an older brother of Clarence and Henry Blanchard, who were seriously injured a few weeks ago when driven into by an autoist while repairing their motorcycle at the side of the street on South Brand.

Hit by P. E. Car

Antonio Tassano, who has a large nursery at San Fernando road and Grand View avenue, was driving a Ford truck on Grand View about 7 o'clock yesterday morning when he was struck by a Pacific Electric Burbank car, demolishing the truck and quite seriously injuring Mr. Tassano. He was taken to the Burbank hospital where it was found that he has sustained several broken ribs and was badly cut and bruised about the face.

TOLERATING
INTOLERANCE

COMMENTS ON THOSE WHO WOULD FORCE THEIR VIEWS ON OTHERS

CHARITY IS A VIRTUE

A LOCAL WRITER APPEALS FOR THE RIGHTS OF THOSE OF LIBERAL VIEWS

(Written for the Evening News)
It is strange, but nevertheless true, that even in this day and age there are people who ask of the world that it agree with their views in every particular. If this state of affairs could only be brought about, they would look upon the world and call it good. They would rejoice and be glad and they have not the slightest doubt that everyone else would have reason to rejoice and be glad, also.

For instance: a person of this stamp has certain clearly defined ideas upon the observance of Sunday, or he sees very plainly the hand of the devil himself in such pastimes as dancing, games, theatres and profane literature. He sighs, alas, for the good old days when men of this kind could enforce their views by means of fines and imprisonment, with occasional recourse to the even more effective agency of torture. "O, the times! O, the morals of the times!" he cries, lamenting the degeneracy of those whose views do not harmonize with his own. Of a truth, the times are out of joint, he feels.

And beyond a doubt, the man is sincere. The mosquito and the house-fly and the little red ant that solemnly invades our homes also are sincere to the nth degree—yet we sweat them; not because we love their sincerity less, but our rights and our comfort more.

Often the man (or woman) of this type sincerely considers himself a most exemplary Christian. Now, the plain fact of the matter is, that the man who is not broad enough to tolerate those who honestly differ from him possesses not at all that greatest of all Christian virtues: the virtue of charity. Verily, such a man (or woman) has yet to learn even the meaning of the word. And are we not told that if we have the faith that will move mountains and have not charity, we are as sounding brass and a tinkling cymbal?

The great commandment of the Law is love—and it is not conditioned by the provision that we love only those who think as we do.

Restraint of law is necessary, to be sure; but the time has passed when decent normality can be treated as flaming sin by concealed pharisees. The world has outgrown their narrow view. There are accepted moral standards from which no one may diverge without losing his own respect and forfeiting the right to the respect of his fellow-men, but aside from these every individual has the right to make his own moral distinction.

Death of Mrs. Dubel

Mrs. Rose Melvina Dubel departed this life at her home, 415 West Colorado street, Saturday, November 20, aged 46 years. Deceased is survived by her husband, John B. Dubel, two sons, John Wesley and Wm. Francis, four sisters, Mrs. Quick of 123 North Cedar street, Misses Barbara and Susie Inman of Los Angeles and Mrs. Smith of Long Beach, and two brothers, H. G. and Ephraim Inman of Los Angeles. Mrs. Dubel was a resident of Glendale for the past seven years and had many friends and acquaintances in this city. She was a member of the West Glendale Methodist church.

Funeral services will be held at the Jewel City Undertaking company parlors Tuesday at 2 p. m., with interment in Grand View cemetery.

Glendale Enthusiasts

L. A. Hart, of the Hart Realty company, 120 North Brand boulevard, recently sold his home at 729 East Raleigh street to Mr. Dickerson, of Terre Haute, Indiana.

The Dickerson family had spent last winter in Glendale, and naturally the Indiana city that had claimed their allegiance lost out, after that. They simply had to come back to Glendale and have a permanent home here.

Mr. Hart, however, is equally sure that Glendale's the coming place; for he immediately bought the Richard Dolt home at 501 North Louise and his family has just moved in.

THEIR FEALTY
IS EXPRESSED

BY ALL MEMBERS OF THE FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH AT YESTERDAY'S SERVICE

NINTH ANNIVERSARY

OF PASTOR MARKS BEGINNING OF ACTIVITIES TENDING TOWARD NEW EDIFICE

The Sabbath morning service at the Presbyterian church was observed in a double special capacity: As the opening of the tenth year of the pastorate of Rev. W. E. Edmonds, and as the beginning of the special week of ingathering for the new church building.

Preceding the sermon the pastor summoned to places on the platform all the members of the official boards of the church, and then took occasion to express the sense of value and the appreciation in which they are held. Following this the senior elder, W. J. Clendenin, made a brief address glancing back over the past years of the church with their marvelous development, and over the happy history of this pastorate; and closed by presenting the pastor with a great cluster of magnificent roses.

The sermon's text was taken from II. Kings 23:3, "And all the people stood to the covenant." King Josiah came to the throne a young lad, but a lad true to God. But in time his people dropped away from fealty to the Lord. Then the king summoned his great men and the people, and read to them all this scripture which had been found in the temple. "And the king stood by a pillar and made a covenant before the Lord, to walk after the Lord, to keep His commandments, to perform the words of the covenant that were written in this book. And all the people stood to the covenant."

In thinking today of a covenant entered into in this church nine years ago, solemn promises were given and received by contracting parties. God was called upon to witness the union, a ceremony uniting a pastor and a people in a solemn covenant in which each made promises which should be binding so long as the minister should continue to be pastor of this church. It is fitting on this anniversary to consider the renewal of the covenant. The Holy Ghost is a party to such a contract. In business a man gets on without the spirit of God, but not so the minister, who is under divine compulsion to preach the Gospel. Paul was right, "Woe is me if I preach not the Gospel."

The covenant has sacredness and binding force. The covenanted pastor has been put under solemn promise to take heed to himself and to all the flock for the glory of God, all the time.

YOUNG MAN

ARTHUR JEWELL KLEINMEYER KILLED BY AUTO TRUCK NEAR GLENDALE

IN THE PRIME OF LIFE

TENDER TRIBUTE PAID HIS MEMORY BY ELDER J. W. CHRISTIAN

How suddenly the shadows gather! How soon can darkness dissipate the sunshine of life and gloom and sorrow prevail! Truly life is uncertain and its days are quickly past. Fittingly appropriate are the words of inspiration: "Man is of few days and full of trouble. He cometh forth like a flower and is cut down. He fleeth also as a shadow, and continueth not."

Arthur Jewell Kleinmeyer was born in Cedar Rapids, Iowa, March 19, 1896, of Lutheran parentage. A few months later his father died, leaving to the wife and mother the care of a family of six girls and their baby brother. His boyhood was spent in Iowa and Colorado. While in Colorado his mother came in contact with the teachings of Seventh-day Adventists and united with the S.-D. A. church in Colorado Springs.

At about 18 years of age he left his uncle's farm and went to Des Moines, Ia., where he entered a school of mechanics, taking a course of instruction in electrical and machine work. When 22 years old he entered the military service. With the exception of three the members of his company were sent overseas. He, however, received promotion and was retained for service in this country.

Upon receiving his discharge from the army he again devoted himself to study, this time in a school in Kansas City, where he specialized on automobile work, from which he graduated. About this time he was stricken with pneumonia and for a number of weeks was in a very critical condition. When able to leave the hospital in Kansas City he came west to be with his sister while convalescing.

Arthur was a young man of a quiet disposition and excellent character. While of a retiring nature he won the general esteem and confidence of those with whom he came in contact. From officers and employees of the Irvine company of Tustin, near Santa Ana, Cal., where he was employed at the time of his death, many expressions of appreciation of him and his work testify to the esteem in which he was held.

His death occurred suddenly on the evening of Monday, November 15th, a few minutes after bidding good-bye to his sister at her home in Eagle Rock, with whom he had spent a week's vacation.

He leaves as the members of his immediate family, four sisters: Mrs. M. M. Hare of Eagle Rock, and Mrs. J. A. DuBois, Mrs. J. P. Ennis and Mrs. John O. Mybree of Iowa.

Arthur was laid to rest in the beautiful Forest Lawn cemetery, Thursday, Nov. 18th.

W. C. T. U. Meeting

The ladies of the W. C. T. U. were the guests at their Friday meeting of Mrs. Charles Ingledue, 411 North Central avenue.

The devotional exercises were appropriate to the Thanksgiving season, each member giving a reason why she was particularly thankful.

The topic for the day was "Law Enforcement." Several articles pertaining to this subject were read by members. The stand of the president-elect and vice-president-elect of our country was discussed, and it was noted that both upheld the Volstead act and that both would most firmly oppose the efforts made by certain interests to bring about a return of the conditions that existed before its passage.

The usual social hour closed the afternoon.

Mrs. Judd Opens Office

Mrs. Mabel S. Judd is the latest to join the Glendale real estate fraternity. She will open her office the latter part of this week at 224 South Brand boulevard. Mrs. Judd has been identified with the real estate interests of Glendale for the past few years and is well known here. She is soliciting listings and expects to have some attractive items to offer her clients when she opens for business. Mrs. Judd will write insurance and do notary work in addition to her real estate business.

HARDING TO REACH DESTINATION TUESDAY

PRESIDENT-ELECT'S CABINET TO BE COMPOSED ENTIRELY OF REPUBLICANS

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

ABOARD THE STEAMSHIP PARISMINA, Nov. 22.—President-elect Harding's cabinet will be composed entirely of Republicans and will not be a coalition cabinet, according to opinion of persons close to Harding.

The Parismina, carrying Harding and his party on a pleasure trip to Panama, continued to sail through quiet, tropical seas today and was expected to reach its destination tomorrow.

The report that Senator Chamberlain, Democrat, Oregon, would be named secretary of war, was declared to be unfounded, although Chamberlain is a close personal friend of Harding.

FORMAL CONFERENCE OF U. S. SENATORS

PARTY LINES TO BE OBLITERATED AND FORGOTTEN IN EFFORT TO REMEDY SITUATION

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—Party lines are to be obliterated and forgotten by mid-western and western members of the House and Senate this winter in an effort to remedy the situation which has stirred resentment among farmers and livestock raisers, it was learned today.

Informal conferences held among Republican and Democratic senators from western states have resulted in a decision to hold a formal conference of all senators from western states soon after the December session begins, Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska said today.

At this conference a working program is to be mapped out, if possible, for concerted action by senators from farm and livestock states, regardless of party, in the interests of the producers.

LEAGUE OF NATIONS WILL HELP ARMENIA

GENEVA, Nov. 22.—The League of Nations today summoned the League council to take immediate steps to aid Armenia. Voting unanimously for the first time, the assembly adopted a resolution presented by Viviani of France to summon the council this afternoon to determine the scope of the League's action.

CLEVER DISGUISE

OFFICER HERBERT PLAYS DRUNKEN HOBO SO PERFECTLY DECEIVES CAPT. MUIRE

So thoroughly had Police Officer Herbert disguised himself as a hobo for the hard times dance given by the Yeomen last Friday evening, that he and Officer Blix thought they would play a trick on their superior officer, Capt. McGuire. When Capt. McGuire returned on duty after partaking of supper shortly after midnight, he was greeted with a sight seldom seen in Glendale. Stretched full length on one of the benches in front of the Pacific Electric depot was a disreputable-looking tramp, seemingly in a drunken stupor. Officer Blix approached him and tapping on his shoulder said "Wake up!" The hobo (Officer Herbert) mumbled some sort of reply. After discussing the matter with Blix, Capt. McGuire was of the opinion that such a rough character should be locked up in the city jail until morning. He also made the remark that he thought a bath would do him good. The hobo was taken to the jail and searched, which revealed nothing more than a small gun about three inches in length, such as would fit into a vest pocket. Thinking that the tramp was secure for the night, McGuire returned to his post. Meanwhile, Blix returned to the jail and let his pal out.

The fun was not yet over. This was the last night that Desk Sergeant George Brewster was to be on duty. Blix and Herbert went to the city hall to call on their friend George. As they went stumbling up the stairs, Blix called to Brewster to help him get the tramp upstairs. Brewster responded and suggested that a search be made. Blix responded to this and when Brewster made the search he found a police badge.

The disguise consisted of an acquired growth of beard and "muddy" complexion, old shoes, which were nearly a minus quantity, an old slouch hat, torn trousers and patched coat.

Sympathy Tendered

At the close of the morning service in the First M. E. church yesterday, after a few appropriate remarks by the pastor, Rev. C. M. Crist, a motion was made and seconded that the sympathy of those present be tendered to the bereaved family of Charles F. Van de Water, of Long Beach, whose tragic death had so shocked the people of Southern California. Every person in the well-filled auditorium stood when the motion was put.

STEADY GROWTH

AND INCREASING DESIRABILITY AS PLACE OF RESIDENCE FORETOLD

As the News has remarked before, we who have lived in Glendale for some time have lost our sense of perspective and need the viewpoint of the outsider to enable us to appreciate the wonderful advantages and opportunities of Glendale.

Another striking example of the truth of this statement was furnished the News this morning by L. A. Hart, of the Hart Realty company, 120 North Brand boulevard.

A shrewd woman who has just sold property in Los Angeles in order to buy in Glendale expresses herself as follows: "Los Angeles can now be called the New York City of the Pacific coast. Her tremendous growth, due to the wonderful boost spirit of her business men in encouraging new industries, developing the harbor, and building up foreign trade, has resulted in a congestion that makes for good business, but does not make for desirable environment for residence."

"What is the result? People seek homes outside of this congested area—homes in pleasant places, close to transportation not too far from their business. And what more ideal place than the beautiful foothill city of Glendale, with its beautiful surroundings, excellent water, comfortable elevation, and splendid transportation facilities?"

"Why, in Chicago, New York, Detroit, and other large Eastern cities one rides for an hour and a half, two hours, or even longer, to get home from business! And here's Glendale, only thirty minutes from the heart of the city! I am buying property here because I believe in Glendale's wonderful future. I have watched her growth; it has been steady—not a mushroom growth. I know that Los Angeles will become more and more congested and that people who love real homes are going to be—

EXPRESS FEALTY

lowing nothing to come in which would injure the flock. The people's part is of supreme importance in this covenant. What do the people owe to the minister—not in dollars, but in support? First, the support of prayer, in all his work; he can't get very far without it. He needs the support of their presence. And not only by prayer and presence, but with the partnership of his people. With your prayer, presence and partnership all things can be done.

As we stand to renew the covenant
we are brought to three things: Self-examination; are pastor and people faithful, zealous, true as nine years ago? Are we doing our best? Earnest endeavor of both parties to live up to what they have promised. And such a relationship is worthy of being strengthened and renewed year by year in solemn service. Especially fitting is such a renewal as we enter upon the season of special work which is just before this church. We are now proceeding on a new road;
we have never gone this way before.
At New Year's sunrise service in Scotland there was a beautiful old custom. Each turned to the other and said: "If thy heart be as my heart, give me thy hand."

Following the sermon, the boards and organizations of the church gave expression to a renewal of their covenant fealty. The elders were represented by a message spoken by J.
P. Isitt; the board of deacons by J.
W. Cooper; the trustees by T. W.
Preston; the co-ordinated women's societies by Mrs. L. W. Sinclair; the Sunday school by H. L. Finlay; the older Christian Endeavor societies by Fred Hoffman; the intermediate and Junior Endeavor societies by Howard Brown.

INTOLERANCE

tions. They are matters between him and his God.

It is the right of a community to protect itself against noise and unseemly disturbance on Sunday. It is not only the community's right, but also its duty, to protect against indecent on screen and stage and to refuse to harbor gaming places where youth is tempted or corrupted. Only a community bankrupt in morals would submit to such conditions. But since in every community there are people of widely different views, it cannot go further than this without violating the law of justice and the law of love.

Intolerance and fanaticism have had their fangs drawn; their assumptions in any line, be it religion or anything else, are no longer accepted as indications of virtue; they are now known to be outward signs, not of inward grace, but of inward emptiness and conceit. And so they are tolerated by the majority and even given wide latitude for dissemination;
but they make few converts.

While they despise the humanity
that will not be molded by them, humanity in return only pities them.
Especially is this true in generous, tolerant America. Why should we give way to anger at their simplicity and ignorance? Why should we meet their blissful assurance with anything but a smile?

"Now there remaineth these three:
faith, hope and charity; but the greatest of these is charity."

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hoedinghaus of 1211 North Brand boulevard had
as their Sunday guests Mr. and Mrs.
Harry Lanum of Santa Monica.

A. F. Kipper and family have moved from 810 East Wilson avenue to Hermosa Beach, and W. H. Dayenport from 1417 South Central avenue to 451 Vine.

New residences ready for occupancy are those of Mrs. Hattie Carney, a double bungalow at 308 East Wilson avenue; R. C. Monter, 615 East Lomita avenue, and J. G. Jones, Sixth street and Grand View avenue.

As in years past many of the Evening News subscribers save money and extra trouble for themselves, and make it easier for our subscription manager by paying a year's subscription at once.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Blyth of Eliott place, Los Angeles, are the proud parents of a fine baby girl born November 22d. Mr. Blyth formerly was in the grocery business in Glendale and has many friends and acquaintances in this city.

Mrs. M. J. Vanostran, who has been spending the past three months visiting her sister, Mrs. M. E. Blyth, of 126 East Garfield avenue, and Mrs. F. A. Davis of 118 West Colorado left last week for her home in Yakima, Washington.

Mrs. Dr. Morgan's auto, driven north by her on Central avenue yesterday, collided with that of Alfred Neutwig, 903 North Main street, Los Angeles, at Central and Park avenues. Both machines were badly wrecked but both drivers escaped with slight bruises. Mrs. Morgan's home is at 828 South Normandie.

Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Fryer of 1424 North Pacific avenue attended the golden wedding anniversary of Mr.
and Mrs. J. M. Fryer of Spadra, California, Saturday. The two Mr. Fryers are brothers and the two Mrs.
Fryers are sisters. Many beautiful gifts were presented by their many friends. In the afternoon a most delicious turkey dinner was served.

Prizes for the most original cos-features of the evening was a short informal program consisting of two songs, "When You and I Were Young, Maggie" and "A Maiden's

Prayer," and a dialogue, "An Old Sweetheart of Mine." Refreshments

Engle, George Stanley, Emily Bellue
and Alvin Brown are members, and

FACTORY STARTED

FRED MENEELY WILL MANU-FACTURE WINDOW SHADE CLOTH
IN GRAND VIEW DISTRICT

Fred E. Meneely of 381 Salem has at last gotten everything in shape for beginning work on his factory for the manufacture of window shade cloth. He has been working on the project for many months and is mightily pleased that now all obstructions have been removed and the way cleared for rapid advancement in the work. He took out a permit Friday for the first unit, to cost $13,500, and other buildings will follow until a plant worth in excess of $50,000 is in full operation.
The location is on two acres just east of Vine avenue, between the San Fernando road and the S. P. tracks.
Arrangements will be made to house
the workmen at the plant, until houses can be built for them. Mr.
Meneely is confident that this start
he has made in locating manufacturing in that section will be followed by others, and a regular manufacturing center will be built up.

AUTO DRUNKS

THREE MORE ARRESTED SUN-DAY DEFEATING THE
STREETS OF GLENDALÉ

A big Cadillac touring car by the side of Verdugo road opposite the Astra Film Studio yesterday with three drunk men in it attracted the attention of passersby and several reports of the trio's actions were phoned to police headquarters. The men were arrested and after they had partially sobered up were allowed to depart in the machine after deposit-ing $25 bail each. The men were G.
W. Gayer, Paul Phillips and Harold Crundall, all of Pasadena. Phillips was arrested in Pasadena later in the afternoon, charged with driving this same auto while in a drunken condition. When the men were arrested in Glendale they had a gallon glass jug that had held wine but which was then empty except for a few drops.

GIVES REASON

take themselves to the foothills, away from the madding crowd, where they can enjoy life and where their children have the proper environment.
"Glendale property will grow steadily in value. People of discernment are seeing and appreciating its possibilities more and more; as this class of people are the intelligent, cultured class, Glendale is fast becoming a residence city of the highest type."

These are ideas that should be carefully digested by every resident of Glendale. When thoroughly mastered, they should make of everyone who reads these lines an enthusiastic Glendale booster, ready to co-operate to the fullest in every plan for the development of Glendale.

STATES DAY

PEOPLE TO BE SEATED BY STATE AT UNION THANKSGIV-ING SERVICE, M. E. CHURCH

For several years Trinity M. E.
church of Los Angeles has observed States Day, setting aside a Sunday morning service and inviting the residents of Los Angeles to come out and be seated with other residents from their old home states. Considerable interest has resulted, new friendships have been made and old friendships renewed. Now Glendale is to have a similar day on Thursday morning at 10. The First M. E.
church will be arranged in sections and the audience seated according to the states they were born in. This is a union service for everyone in Glendale, regardless of church affiliations.

Rev. V. Hunter Brink, pastor of the Central Avenue Methodist church, is to preach the sermon and the choir of Central Christian church will furnish the special music. An offering for the relief of the starving women and children of Europe and Asia will be taken and it is hoped
a large sum will be realized.

GLENDALÉ TENTH

MAINTAINS HER HIGH STANDING
AMONG BUILDING CITIES
IN CALIFORNIA

Glendale is tenth among California cities in value of building permits issued during the month of October and twelfth of the cities of the Pacific coast. The order in which they come is as follows: Los Angeles, San Francisco, Long Beach, Seattle, Portland, Oakland, Pasadena, San Diego, Berkeley, Fresno, Stockton, Glendale.

In the country at large New York leads, as usual, but with a reduced total, only $12,225,379, as against over fifteen million in September and nearly thirty million in August. Detroit stepped into second place last month and Los Angeles was third,
while Hartford, Conn., and New Orleans, La., followed, with Chicago in sixth place. Long Beach was again in the million class with $1,192,709;
nineteenth of all the cities of the country in total of permit valuations
for October.

California cities far outstripped
those of other parts of the nation in value of permits, with Washington
and Oregon following.

THORNYCROFT

WAS THE SCENE OF AN ENJOY-ABLE PROGRAM SATURDAY
EVENING

One of the two programs which Mrs. W. E. Evans of 333 North Orange promised the boys at Thorny-croft, was given to an appreciative audience of our invalid soldier boys
in the assembly room on Saturday
evening.

Piano numbers were given by Mrs.
Boyer; Mrs. Gladys Gibbs Sherman
gave a group of Cadman songs:
"From the Land of the Sky Blue Water" and "At Dawning"; there was an interesting pianologue by L. G. Sherman; vocal solos by Hal Holland of Los Angeles, and a delightful reading by Mrs. W. E. Evans, who showed an insight into the boys' tastes in her choice, Paul Lawrence Dunbar's
"Breaking the Charm."

Mr. Allen, the Scotch singer who is at Thornycroft because he was gassed once while in pursuance of his duty as entertainer of the boys
"Over There," was imprompted to sing, and graciously responded with "Mother Machree," Mrs. Boyer playing his accompaniment.

There are women who spend a lot of their time trying to disprove what
the wrinkles are saying.

NEW FIELD FOR FICTION

Writers of fiction are so palpably agonized to produce new fantasies with apparent basis of fact that the wonder is they have not seized avidly upon the myriad phenomena of prohibition, or American phenomena under the operation of prohibition enactments. Every other field has been combed over, utilized, fertilized, harvested, worked to bareness. Even the great war, so rich a theme for a long time for story mongers, good, poor and intolerable, has been ravaged to an extreme, and nearly all of the publishing purveyors of its tragedies, romances, comedies and devilities in fiction have cried enough.
So with the detective cult, buried treasure, the aspiring country girl lost in the city's maelstrom, the gentleman burglar, the haunted castle, the captive heroine, airplane and submarine adventure, and all the other hackneyed throes and babblings, ad nauseum.

Prohibition ambushes and escapades, bootlegging, sungling, moonshining, private stills, national and international devices to evade the law which often exhibit a quality of real genius in devising and executing, are innumerable, marvelous of invention, infinite of variety, involving all elements of drama, comedy, romance, and tragedy; and apparently the thrilling moving picture of daring and evasion and heart throbbing expectation is little farther advanced than the prologue.

Contraband is being shot under waters of the Great Lakes in torpedoes and the surface is dotted thick with all kinds of launches engaged in smuggling liquor from Canada, is the testimony of government officials of that region. Beverages banned in the United States are brought from Cuba, Central America and Mexico by yachts, sea-going tugs, airplanes and Rio Grande canoes. The cup that exhilarates and inebriates is brewed and distilled in cave and desert, cellar and attic, valley and mountain vastness, alley tenement and avenue palace, stable and garage, and an army of 75,000 persons is employed by government to suppress the making and trafficking.

This is but a bare and vague glimpse of the vast field opened for the story-teller, in which all human passions are exhibited excitingly and where cunning, stealth, greed, humor, hilarity and headaches run riot with appetizing seasonings of love and crime.

Good intentions usually go farther in keeping a man out of trouble than in getting him out.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

FREEDOM FOR A PRINCE

Royal match-making used to be political business of the highest importance in Europe, but it is not so any more. Fashions have changed so completely that an oracular British journal feels privileged, or maybe regards it its duty, to advise the Prince of Wales that he is free to choose for a wife whomsoever he pleases. It says the English people no longer feel that the consort of a prince needs to be of royal blood. Following that, it easily adopts the pose of preceptor and warns the Prince of Wales "to avoid entering into marriage with a foreign princess, to avoid a political marriage and to marry for love." Quite redundantly, it assures him that his bride does not necessarily have to be his social equal.

All this, we may believe, represents with reasonable accuracy sentiment in Britain. The princes royal have attained to a degree of freedom which a few years ago would have been altogether unthinkable. Surely, the Prince of Wales and others of comparable rank will be highly gratified. At least so will people who sometime were wont to pity royalty for its lack of freedom to choose a wife from sentiments of affection as "common" people do. On the other hand, this newly acquired liberty will prove less of a blessing than it appears to be. The divinity that doth hedge a king was enjoyed only at the expense of some sacrifice. Likewise the claims of kings have been recognized by the people only in consideration of royalty's maintaining certain standards. Purity of the royal blood was one thing demanded, however fictional its realization might be. That was one of the things which kept royalty as folk apart. By the blood test they were better than the commonality.

Evidently the British people have experienced a change of sentiment in this respect. And that probably portends a greater change in the status of kings. If the people have become indifferent to the kind of a wife the Prince of Wales may take, it is likely that they are on the road to indifference whether or not they have a king. If that is the tendency the young man under consideration may well ponder what is good for him. He may, and probably will, lose his meal ticket. If he is wise he will take for a wife a woman who can be a helpmeet. That kind is not apt to be found among the royalties.

PRIVATE SOLDIERS

The decision of Great Britain to inter in Westminster Abbey the body of an unidentified private soldier as a tribute to those who served in the ranks is a just recognition of that phase of army service to which not only England but every other nation as well owes its existence. It is necessary to have leaders. An army without commanders is a mob. Its movements must be co-ordinated in order to be effective.

But after the generals have disposed their troops and laid their plans of action it is the private soldier who does the work. It is the man who takes orders, not he who gives them, who is where the fight is hottest. Westminster Abbey is the place of sepulture of England's most illustrious dead. In interring there the body of an unknown private the empire acknowledges its debt to the men whom this unidentified soldier represents. The dead man will not repose any more peacefully than had he lain where he fell, and it matters not to those whose names are inscribed on their tombs surrounding his that they in death are honored above others, but the living may be reminded that the humble and unknown who perform their duty serve humanity as well as those whose names may be written on the scroll of fame.

In this honor done to a private soldier England, a land where classes and distinctions are officially recognized, sets an example that might be imitated by others ostensibly more of democracies. When the most famous men Britain has produced in all her long history must share their burial place with the body of a man whose name even is unknown and whose part in life is equally a mystery, it would seem that class distinctions in the burial of soldiers in this land might be disregarded. The man who gives the best that is in him does as much as another who does more yet is doing only according to his ability. Death knows no distinctions. Men only would seek to impress recognition of a difference.

ENGLISH FORMS OF SPEECH

English idioms and forms of speech are attractive to American ears, as are the modulated and clear intonation of cultivated English people. From the English actors who visit our shores we get that perfect enunciation which leads us to think it a racial characteristic, but there are probably as many shrill and unpleasant voices in England as there are loud and nasal ones in this country.

A stranger traveling in England never gets quite accustomed to the nonchalant "I'm sorry," delivered in blithe, carefree tones when one's feet have been walked over, or one's elbows knocked. It does not take the place, in our aggrieved consciousness, of a heartfelt, "I beg your pardon," but it seems to be the accepted form of apology. In England, a man not quite a gentleman is a boulder or a cad; the weather is wet or fine, instead of rainy or fair; a darned fool becomes a silly ass; a trunk is a box, and baggage, luggage. The good New England surprise expression, "Well, did you ever!" becomes a drawn out, "Fawney now!" and "My word" is equivalent of "Ye gods!"

A landlady in Liverpool once said to men in dulcet tones, "Do you go in for potatoes?" I was bewildered for a moment, wondering if she meant to ask me if I cultivated them myself—but finally I realized that she was merely asking me if I liked them.

English slang is of course most perplexing to the uninitiated, and like our own, constantly changing. The expression, "jolly well out of it," is often heard; a thing isn't "cricket" when it isn't fair or sportsmanlike. The war slang was a language in itself, and the queer French and English patois was known only to those whom it served in their hours of need.

It has been said that Dickens' "Pickwick Papers" will hardly be intelligible to the average reader in fifty years, as London street language changes so in the lapse of time. We know our own slang has its distinct periods; do we ever now hear the expression, "Ah there!" or "Oh, rats"; or "It's a cold day when I get left?"

The battleships Iowa and Indiana, which cost millions of dollars to construct, are being used as targets for the big guns of the new fleet and the bombs of seaplanes.

of swearword a cop ever uses). Vermillion lips and cheeks are common, but red paint on brows is a new one on me. But he seems a harmless nut.

Thus giving him the benefit of the doubt, as every proper cop should do, he wended him on his way; and the temperamental composer who could catch divine melodies on a fire plug but not in a crowded salon, wended his way back to his friends with a wondrous lulling melody that fit the lyrics of his collaborator, Reed Heustis, like a glove.

Shorter Road to Justice

There are indications to encourage the belief that the courts, from the smallest to the largest, are responding to the general policy of avoiding waste and getting results by the least expenditure of the public money, and at the same time preserving the rights of the citizen.

While much is yet to be desired in the work of bringing about reforms in court procedure, it is plain that the old-time methods of delaying justice as long as possible are not being received with very good favor by the judges of the present day. The courts are showing more of a tendency to get at the truth, rather than to aid high-priced lawyers earn large fees.

The days of the lawyers who would browbeat witnesses and attempt to

Wrangel's Turn

General Wrangel has gone the way of Kolchak, Denikin and Yudenitch. His adventure against the Bolsheviks has ended in a debacle. As with his predecessors, ruin, swift and overwhelming, overtook him just as the world was beginning to think that he was on the way to success.

The forecasts that were being made a week or two ago of the collapse of the regime of Messrs. Lenin and Trotsky probably must be revised in the light of the new developments. Apparently the Bolsheviks are to remain in power yet awhile, unless—and upon this the friends of Russia will pin their hope—unless there comes a revolt, unsupported by foreign interference, within the ranks of the Bolsheviks themselves.

The fate that has overtaken every expedition fitted out against the Reds by other nations is rather convincing that nothing can be accomplished in that way. Apparently even Russians who are not friendly to the Bolsheviks resent the interference of foreigners in Russian affairs. The people of Russia must be left to work out their own destiny.

On the heels of the Moults

PCA MOULT MASH DRY MASH

A FALLING off in egg production is a natural consequence of moulting, and the problem confronting the poultryman during this season is how to shorten the period and thus promote laying.

This is best accomplished by proper feeding of the two celebrated feeds—P. C. A. Dry Mash and P. C. A. Moults Mash.

P. C. A. Moults Mash is not a substitute for P. C. A. Dry Mash, which should form the basis of poultry ration throughout the year. The Moults Mash can be fed either dry or dampened.

All P. C. A. ground feeds are packed in full weight 100 pound sacks. Some of the feeds, including P. C. A. Dry Mash, are also packed in 50 pound and 25 pound sacks. P. C. A. Chick Feed and Growing Chick Feed can also be obtained in 10 pound packages.

Your dealer will give you full directions for the proper feeding of P. C. A. Moults Mash.

RED CROSS

PERFORMS PRODIGES, SAYS SURGEON-GENERAL OF U. S. ARMY

Major-General Merritte W. Ireland, Surgeon-General of the United States Army, in a tribute to the American Red Cross and an appeal for the Fourth Red Cross Roll Call, declares "it has performed prodigies."

The complete statement follows: "Not only has the American Red Cross generously met every demand made upon it, but in assisting in our efforts toward salvaging the physical wrecks of the war it has performed prodigies."

"During the past year, thousands of sick and wounded have been returned to their homes in as able-bodied a condition as it was humanly possible to achieve."

"However, there still remain in hospital a goodly number of patients whose convalescence has necessarily been protracted, and reconstruction consequently retarded. Before the lapse of another year, I hope to see all of these patient victims of the war homeward bound and equipped to assume some role as useful members of society."

"Amidst ideal surroundings in Baltimore, the American Red Cross is still caring for that small group of pathetic cases, the men blinded during the war."

But coincident with the rehabilitation and gradual reduction of the numbers of the war's maimed there looms ahead another weighty task for the American Red Cross, which, while it may not approach the magnitude of recent war activities, in the far-reaching results it can have upon the young manhood of the nation, promises to become equally as important as any of the work undertaken in the past.

"The new army will consist principally of youths voluntarily enrolled in the formative period of their lives. It will be organized along new and essentially progressive lines. On a scale hitherto undreamt of, the soldier will be surrounded with every conceivable agency for the advancement of his moral, physical, vocational and educational development."

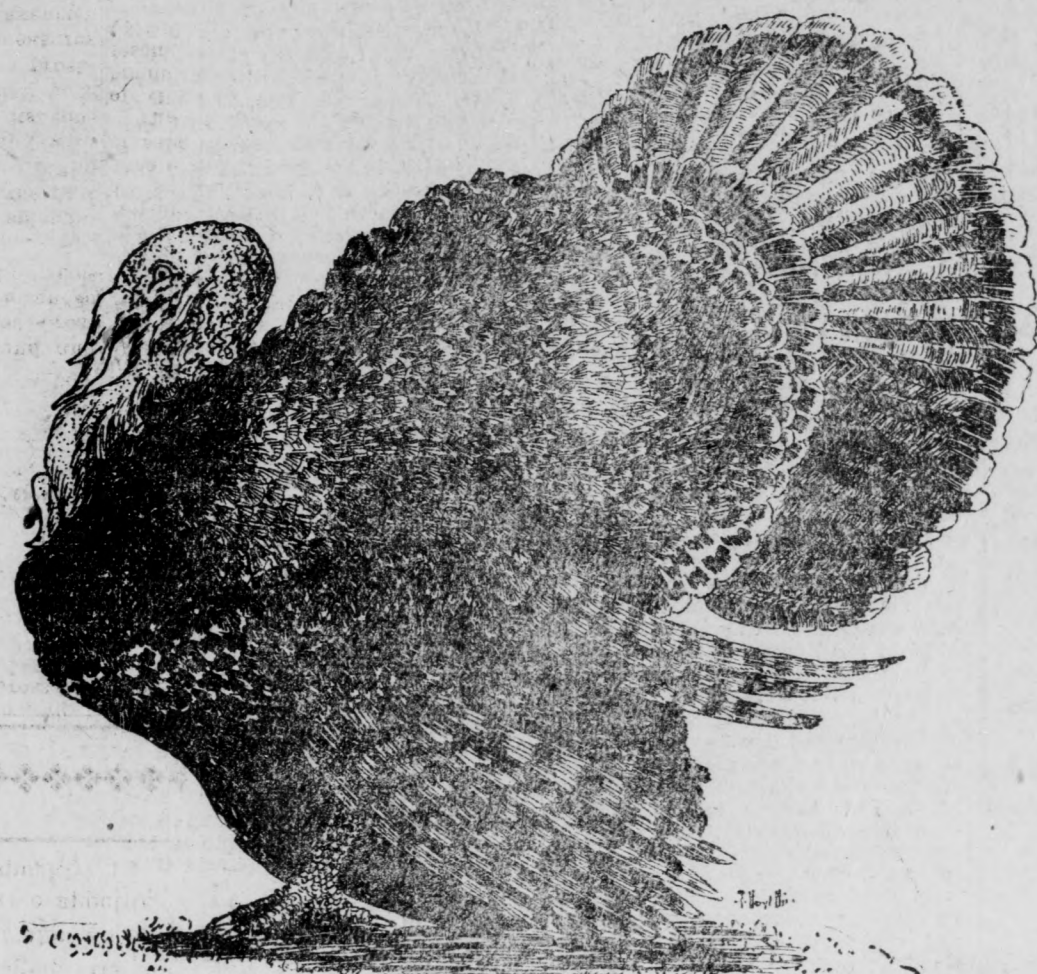

"In training them to meet the national obligations so certain to devolve upon them in any war of the future, and at the same time preparing them to qualify for and fit into a place in the commercial or industrial life of the nation upon the conclusion of their peace-time tour with the colors, the army will urgently need the support and assistance of the American Red Cross."

"On the very threshold of manhood, away from home and friends, and in a strange environment, these young men will particularly need the helping and guiding hand of the Greatest Mother, who so beneficently watches over and aids all, irrespective of boundaries, birth or creed."

"Aside from its physical relief, the American Red Cross, through its various agencies, has accomplished wonders in supporting the moral campaign so energetically inaugurated by the army. It is in a position to do this in an unobtrusive and unobtrusive manner that particularly appeals to the men."

Facts about the Turkey Day Race at Los Angeles .....

ber of the American Red Cross the expediency of maintaining intact during time of peace an organization that can be quickly expanded in time of war without confusion or friction. We now have such an organization in the American Red Cross, and it would be regrettable indeed to permit it to languish.

"Confronted with a never-ending mission which can be accomplished only by universal and whole-hearted support, it behooves every man, woman and child to rally round and adhere to that American Red Cross standard that has come to mean so much in the life of the nation, collectively and individually."

"In recognition of the splendid work it has accomplished in the past and the good that it can do in the future for the army alone, and with a profound appreciation of its constructive work among the civil population, such as the extensive prosecution of anti-tuberculosis measures and the institution of other agencies for the upbuilding of the public health, the activities of the visiting nurses' associations and of the Junior Red Cross, I urge upon every member who has been affiliated with the society during the war to keep alive his or her active membership therein, and, in addition, to vigorously support the ensuing campaign for new members."

There would be very little kicking on a cut in the wages of sin.

Columbia Records

Rosa Ponselle and Charles Hackett, leading dramatic soprano and tenor of the New York Metropolitan Opera company, sing the final duet of Aida, "O terra addio" for Columbia Records this month. No more splendid recording of the duet has ever come into Columbia lists than this Ponselle-Hackett Symphony record.

"Holy Night, Peaceful Night, Silent Night, Hallowed Night" is Jeanne Gordon's Christmas record for Columbia this month. Miss Gordon gives a reverent and rarely beautiful interpretation of this carol. Toscha Seidel plays on his violin that well-known "Polish Dance" by Scharwenka. Seidel's magic bow gives life and color to the entire composition. He has caught all the passionate gaiety and melancholy moments of this beautiful dance for Columbia Records.

Evidence of small mental caliber is seen in the person who tries to argue with a woman or a policeman.
